MONITORING AND EVALUATION FOR GOVERNANCE

Benefits:

- You will learn how to utilise the various logics, forms and approaches for the development of results-based management systems relative to local contexts.
- Designing a results-based management monitoring and evaluation system is critical to ensuring your organisation achieves its goals. Our facilitators can help you design a system that includes results indicators at all levels and robust data collection, management, and analysis processes.
- Data is the backbone of smart decision making. We will teach you how to use data to improve decision-making and enable others to do the same.

Modules:

- Module 1: Contextualising Monitoring and Evaluation
- Module 2: Implementation Management and Monitoring Development Interventions
- Module 3: Evaluating Development Interventions
- Module 4: Developing Monitoring and Evaluation Framework
- Module 5: Collecting, Collating, Processing and Analysing Monitoring and Evaluation Data and Information

Requirements:

- An NQF 6 or equivalent qualification.
- You should be employed in a monitoring and evaluation role and should be either a (1) Planning, monitoring and evaluation practitioner, (2) Monitoring and valuation officer in the public sector or a civil society organisation, or (3) Evaluation manager or planning specialist concerned with planning for impact.

Duration:

- The five modules will be delivered over five weeks in block release format. Participants will be required to attend class for three days of a week, once a month, over a period of five months.
